

HURRY! HURRY! HURRY!

TO THE JAMBOREE

Thousands of men and boys throughout the entire nation have their eyes turned toward historic Valley Forge and the coming JALBOREE.

Thousands of fellows like yourself and myself are getting excited because we're going to that Jamboree.

Every Troop, Post, and Ship in Cicero will be represented by its best Scout, plus any others who wish to go. There's no limit to the number who may go.

Already Richard Mikuls, our Town President last Wednesday, and Patrol Leader of the Elephant Patrol in Troop 307, has been named to go.

Joe Pinc, one of our Ranger Staff at Camp Black Hawk last summer and an Eagle Scout from Post #2206, is going as our Jamboree Reporter from "The Cicero Life".

Bob Pachman, Post Advisor of Post #2303 and Scoutmaster of Troop #303, will be one of the assistant scoutmasters of our Jamboree Troop from Cicero.

Last night the Cicero District Committee approved helping each Unit with a minimum of $25.00, to be used to help send one or more boys to the Jamboree. This money was not all derived from the "Scouts in Action Show" but represents additional moneys donated to be used for Jamboree Promotion.

It was further recommended that each Unit pay the $10.00 deposit for each boy from that Unit going to the Jamboree.

So that we may better understand all that is involved, a big JALBOREE ASSEMBLY will be held in the Blue Room of the Cicero Stadium a week from Friday, or on FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, at 7:30 P.M.

At this Jamboree Assembly, Movies of the 1937 Jamboree will be shown. The Jamboree Uniform, neckerchief and patch will be modeled, we'll learn the Region 7 Jamboree Song, and we'll have FUN AND REFRESHMENTS.

THE NATIONAL JAMBOREE
at Valley Forge.

Who's invited?

YOU are.

Yes, YOU and all Scouts desiring to attend this Second National Jamboree.

The Parents of these Scouts, each Scoutmaster and Post and Ship Advisor.

And all Unit Committee Chairmen.

SO - ON TO THE JAMBOREE ASSEMBLY, FEBRUARY 24 -

AND

ON TO THE J A M B O R E E

SCOUTMASTER

The Scoutmaster is the executive Scouter in the Troop. He controls the policies and coordinates efforts of other Troop Scouters.

The Scoutmaster leads the Troop in parades and reviews.

The Scoutmaster will not move his Troop outside the bounds of his Section except upon approval of the Section Director, through the Assistant for Schedules and Dispatching.

The Scoutmaster will arrange through his local Scout Executive to put his Troop through three consecutive days of camp with full complement of Scouters and Scouts prior to leaving for the Jamboree. This camp shall be conducted in strict accordance with training outlined in the pamphlet entitled "Pre-Jamboree Troop Training Camp-1950". In the event school closing dates make it impracticable to carry out the training camp the Scoutmaster should arrange week-end camp trips to produce an equal number of hours of training.

The Scoutmaster should work through his Assistant Scoutmaster, Senior Patrol Leader, and Patrol Leaders as outlined under duties for each.

The Scoutmaster will accompany his Troop to and from the Jamboree and be personally responsible for the health, safety and morale for his Troop.

After receiving the report from his Senior Patrol Leader on cot check each evening after Taps, the Scoutmaster shall report to the Assistant for Schedules and Dispatching, "Present, Accounted For, or Missing," (See Health and Safety at the Jamboree, page 29)

J A M B O R E E

PATROL LEADER

This leader will receive all assignments for any one or all of his Patrol. He will tell the Scouts of the assignment and see to it that it is carried out.

He will see to it that the Patrol tents and equipment are kept in a neat, clean and orderly manner, and that the area around the tents is policed of all papers and other trash.

He must know the whereabouts of every member of his Patrol at all times, and shall maintain Scout-like discipline among them.

ASSISTANT PATROL LEADER

This leader will act in the absence of the Patrol Leader and assist the Patrol Leader as he may be directed.

J A M B O R E E

SECOND ASSISTANT SCOUTMASTER
(Activities)

This Scouter is third in rank of the commissioned Scouters of the Troop and is responsible to the Scoutmaster for all programs and activities, which include the following:

He is responsible for participation of the Troop in the pageants, campfires, reviews, excursions and other activities, and will be in contact with the Section Activities Director.

He is responsible for all First Aid handled in the Troop and will notify the Section Medical Officer of all serious cases.

It is his responsibility to maintain the general morale of the Troop, including distribution of mail and other communications.

It is his responsibility to care for all exhibits.

He will attend the three-day pre-Jamboree Training Camp or such other training as may be arranged.

J A M B O R E E

SENIOR PATROL LEADER

This scout will at all times know the exact whereabouts of each member of the Troop. Under prescribed conditions laid down by the Scoutmaster, he may issue passes outside of the Jamboree Area. He will arrange through the Scoutmaster for permits from the Supervisor for Schedules and Dispatching, for leaving the Jamboree Area. Arrangements to leave camp under conditions where the absence involves a Patrol or more of the Troop missing a meal shall be arranged before 9:00 A. M. of the day before, in order that proper adjustment in food arrangements may be made.

It will be his responsibility to maintain schedules, within the Troop Camp area, covering reveille, meal hours, pageants, reviews, excursions and such other special assignments as the Troop may receive from the Section Director.

It is his responsibility to make all formations of the Troop and then turn the Troop over to the Scoutmaster or other Scouter in charge.

At Taps each evening after the Scouts have retired, the Senior Patrol Leader will make a bed check and report or account to the Scoutmaster for all members of the Troop.

QUARTERMASTER

The First Assistant Scoutmaster's book could be used by the Troop Quartermaster, under the personal supervision of this Scouter. He would keep a master list of Patrol and Troop equipment to be checked en-route, at the Jamboree, and after return home. He would also keep a record of inspection of equipment, borrowed equipment which must be returned, notes on commissary supplies, and a check list on transportation of personal baggage.

J A M B O R E E

SCRIBE

A Unit record chest is available for the storage of all records, but a brief case with a handle, preferably of a type which can be locked and a fibre expansion letter file will do. In addition a pad of lined paper, and a copy of the Simplified Troop Record Book will be very helpful. If the brief case has a handle, these other things can easily be carried inside of it, leaving additional room to spare. It is suggested that the Simplified Troop Record Book be used rather than developing numerous special Jamboree forms which would not be permanently bound together. The Record Book is already available to Councils at the usual price of 7 cents apiece, and will fit into the brief case much more neatly than an assortment of loose forms. It will also take less space.

The Simplified Troop Record Book will need to be adapted to the use of the Unit Leader, but a little improvisation will make it serve your purpose adequately and simply. For example, you can use page 4 to record program features by days instead of months. You can use page 5 as you please. Pages 6 and 7 are excellent for your basic records, with the exception of a few of the columns. Pages 8 and 9 can be skipped. You may have need for pages 10, 11, 12 and 13. Page 14 might possibly be used for any one of a number of purposes. Pages 15 through 20 are excellent for recording all sorts of population-checks, such as issuance of passes, bed checks, attendance and participation records, inspection of equipment, money received and held for Scouts, etc.

The Scoutmaster's copy of the Simplified Troop Record Book could be pretty largely kept and used by the Senior Patrol Leader, who would record all roster checking en-route, passes issued for outside Jamboree areas, and bed checks at night.

The second Assistant Scoutmaster's book would be used by the Troop Scribe, under the personal supervision of this particular Scouter. A record would be kept of money held for Scouts. Also daily expenses of the Unit en-route, on excursions, or while in camp. The Scribe would also maintain a check list on attendance at various events and at other times as directed. In addition to the use of this Simplified Troop Record Book, the Scribe would keep the Troop Log, under the direction of the Assistant Scoutmaster, and as a history of the whole Jamboree experience from time of leaving home until the return.

Record books kept by all Unit Leaders should contain information on restrictions imposed on any boys (or Leaders) after the medical re-check. Some Scouts may have diet or activity limitations and the Unit Leader and Assistants should be well aware of these restrictions and enforce them.

The value of the Simplified Troop Record Book is that it already provides a printed roster form, with ruled half-sheets available for all types of checking. It will be necessary only to write in the desired captions with dark ink or pencil.

FIRST ASSISTANT SCOUTMASTER
(Physical Arrangements)

The first Assistant Scoutmaster of the Troop is responsible to the Scoutmaster for physical arrangements for the Troop.

He will arrange directly with the Section Commissary Officer and Equipment Officer for all supplies and will, through the Senior Patrol Leader and Patrol Leaders, be responsible for the efficient and satisfactory provision of meals.

It will be the duty of this Assistant Scoutmaster to maintain neat, clean, and sanitary conditions in and around the mess facilities, including dishes and utensils, the general policing of the grounds and latrines.

This Assistant Scoutmaster will also be responsible for the care and neat appearance of equipment, including that provided by the Jamboree Committee, as well as that owned by the Troop and personal gear of the Scouts.

He will be responsible for transportation of all personal baggage.

He will attend the three-day Training Camp prior to the Jamboree, or such other training as may be arranged.
